Announcements

Call for Papers
The 9th Bolivian Conference on Development Economics (BCDE9) will take place in Santa Cruz, Bolivia, on Thursday, November 29 and Friday, November 30, 2018. The conference this year is jointly organized by the Sociedad Boliviana de Economistas (SEBOL), Universidad Privada de Santa Cruz (UPSA), Instituto de Estudios Avanzados para el Desarrollo (INESAD) and Academia Boliviana de Ciencias Economicas (ABCE). The conference will host Ariel Kalil as keynote, with special guest Guillermo Vuletin. Papers can be submitted online, with a deadline of July 23, 2018. More information on the conference is available on their website.

SESYNC Short Course
The National Socio-Environmental Synthesis Center (SESYNC) invites applications from PhD students to attend the 6th Graduate Student Workshop on Socio-Environmental Synthesis. The workshop will take place August 28-31, 2018 in Annapolis, Maryland. Workshop goals are to energize and engage students in innovative, team-based, and use-inspired S-E synthesis research, increase student capacities through S-E synthesis training, skill-building, and networking, and prepare students for upcoming S-E synthesis research and leadership opportunities at SESYNC. Read more about the workshop online.

Jobs

Postdoc
The Sustainable Fisheries Group (SFC) at the University of California, Santa-Barbara (UCSB) seeks a fisheries scientist or fisheries economist for a post-doctoral scholar position.
